Letter of Recommendation

I am writing to recommend Marija Doganžić, who developed the complete full-stack application "Chef Nemanja" for me, a nutrition app for my work as a chef and fitness coach.

Marija worked on the project from the beginning of October 2026 to the end of the same month. In that time she handled the entire development process on her own: database architecture, backend, admin panel, and the mobile application. Key features include personalized meal plans with automatic calorie and macronutrient calculation, custom recipe creation with real-time nutrient values, favorites and ingredient filtering, a three-tier subscription system (Free, Premium, Diamond) with screenshot blocking for content protection, and in-app sales of my e-books. All payments, both subscriptions and one-time purchases, are integrated and tested.

The app is finished and has been submitted to Google Play Console. We are waiting for approval before public release.

What I valued most was her independence, clear communication, and reliability. She delivered every phase on time and quickly solved problems that came up along the way. We have agreed to continue working together on long-term maintenance and new features.

I recommend Marija without hesitation for any project involving complex digital products. I am happy to answer any questions using the contact details below.
